

Conference about civic competences in VIAUC University College LIA Aarhus

On the 14 of November we hold a conference about teaching civic competences in the Danish folkeskole intitled:

What can citizenship be, and how can citizenship education in primary school be practiced?

The target group is students on the teachers training college and teachers in the public school

Morning programe 9 -12.45

Henning Westphael will welcome the audience with a short presentation of the CIVICO project

Claus Haas, Associate Professor School of Education, will address how citizenship has entered the Danish school political culture, from almost to have been a foreign concept in a Danish context for just 10 years side to being a buzzword in many learning contexts.

Lone Greve, Frijsenborg School (FJ), cand.pæd. in Religion and interpretation of life , will under the heading "Challenges, experiences and potentials of civic education in the 9th - 10th Class. " touch on how the profession must meet the requirements for the three subjects we have together conceived in the subject Christian studies, history and social studies and what it means for final examination.

FJ has developed new test form including group samples, so it is not inconceivable that the form FJ has developed, can form the basis for rethinking the exam types.

Birgitte Hørby, a teacher at Jelle Bakkeskolen and master of citizenship will present promising approaches to how citizenship can provide added value to the school and all students. Her presentation will focus on how training in democratic skills, linguistic attachment might make inclusion more effective in school.

After the presentations before lunch there will be time for discussions and questions
